蔣 THE CHINESE CONNECTION 齡

"It's very reassuring to realize the importance of Wesleyan in the modern history of China. . . Two out of three of the past rulers of the Republic of China married our graduates."

Wver 100 years ago, a young cabin boy sailed to America to find his fortune. He found God instead, thereby setting off a chain of events that bound Wesleyan College to China forever.

Charles Jones Soong was baptized a Christian soon after his arrival here in the United States. He studied at two Methodist colleges, Duke University and Vanderbilt University, where in 1885 he graduated with a degree in theology. He returned to China, founded the Chinese Y.M.C.A., and married Miss Ni of Shanghai. Desiring that their six children have an American education like their father's, they sent their sons to college in the Northeast and their daughters to college in the South, at Wesleyan.

"It's very reassuring to realize the importance of Wesleyan in the modern history of China," said President Robert Ackerman after a recent trip to Taiwan. "Ever since the 1911 revolution, the College has been closely related to China.

Two out of three of the past rulers of the Republic of China married our graduates."

Ai-ling, the oldest of the Soong Sisters, graduated in 1909 and later married H.H. Kung, one of the wealthiest men in China. In her junior year, her family sent Ching-ling and May-ling to join her at Wesleyan. Ching-ling's classmates remember her as an ardent revolutionist and admirer of her father's friend, Sun Yat-sen, the leader of the Chinese revolution. After her graduation in 1913, Ching-ling traveled to Japan to be with her father and Sun Yat-sen who were in exile. She married the first president of the Republic of China shortly thereafter.

Only ten years old when she arrived, May-ling lived on campus and studied under Margie Burks until she was old enough to begin her freshman year in 1912. Although May-ling left Wesleyan in 1913 to study at Wellesley, so that she could be near her brother at Harvard, her heart remained with the "oldest and best."

*To President & Mrs. Ackerman
May-ling Soong Chiang*

General and Madame Chiang Kai-shek

She returned to Wesleyan once in 1943 to receive honorary degrees for her sisters and herself and again in 1965 for "a sentimental journey" as she called it. During both visits the world saw her as a leader, Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Generalissimo of China; but to her Wesleyan family, she was still May-ling, the beautiful, cultured woman who had grown up on their campus.

During the 82 years since Ai-ling's arrival at the Conservatory, many Chinese women have followed the Soong sisters' example and traveled thousands of miles to study at Wesleyan. According to Dr. Ackerman, Wesleyan averages about two students from Taiwan a year. During a recent visit of Wesleyan by Taiwanese officials, the Ackermans were invited to visit the islands as guests of the Minister of Education, Mao Kao-wen, and see first-hand Madame Chiang Kai-shek's homeland.

The Ackermans traveled to Taipei, Kaohsiung and Hong Kong following a rigorous schedule. "Because of Madame Chiang Kai-shek's influence . . . we were from Wesleyan and considered Madame Chiang Kai-shek's friends . . . our agenda was twice as full as most foreign guests," said Dr. Ackerman.

One meeting on the agenda the Ackermans were particularly looking forward to was a personal visit with Madame Chiang Kai-shek. Unfortunately, Madame Chiang Kai-shek became ill and the Ackermans did not get to see her. "We were very disappointed that we were not able to meet with Madame Chiang Kai-shek, but Pearl Chen, the Madame's personal secretary for over 50 years, became our unofficial hostess," Dr. Ackerman said. Madame Chiang Kai-shek honored the Ackermans with a dinner party. As she was unable to attend, Titania J.T. Chen and Secretary General Ms. Wang Yah-chun of the Women's Anti-Aggression League served as hostesses.

The Women's Anti-Aggression League is one of several organizations Madame Chiang Kai-shek founded during World War II to help the Chinese people recover from the ravages of the war. Originally designed to fight communism, the League now has other concerns such as helping the elderly.

Recognizing that Wesleyan has played an important part in Madame Chiang Kai-shek's education, Mao Kao-wen arranged for the Ackermans to meet the future of Taiwan, their students. The Ackermans visited four colleges, two of which were private institutions. Over the years, many Taiwanese students have transferred to Wesleyan to complete the education they began at Mingchuan Women's Junior College of Commerce in Taipei.

"When we visited Mingchuan College, I was called upon to speak to the faculty, most of whom speak English," said Dr. Ackerman, smiling slightly as he reminisced. "After my hum drum speech, the Taiwanese translator gave my speech in Chinese . . . I hardly recognized it. He made my speech sound much more dramatic. May began her talk by saying she liked my speeches better in Chinese. The faculty roared."

The Ackermans were very impressed with the colleges they toured, especially the National Sun Yat Sen University in Kaohsiung, the sister city of Macon. "The University is located on a coast not unlike Maine's," Dr. Ackerman said. "However, the climate is tropical with palm trees and banana plants. The college has a wonderful marine laboratory located near the ocean. At first glance the outdoor research fields look like rice paddies; they are actually flooding the fields with ocean water and 'sea farming' oysters, clams and shrimp on land . . . absolutely fascinating."

The Ackermans also toured the Chen Hsing Rehabilitation Center and the Hau Hsing Children's Home, both of which Madame Chiang Kai-shek created in the 40's.

"Visiting the Hau Hsing Children's Home was one of the most moving experiences we had during our stay," said President Ackerman. "The children were delightfully earnest . . . in each class we visited, one of the students would stand up in class and tell me about their studies. Both May and I were touched by their apparent enjoyment of school. I would really like to see a Wesleyan scholarship set up for one or two of the graduates of Hau Hsing."

To Historian Robert Ackerman, touring a country with as rich a history as China's is a treat in itself, but to encounter one whose name is chronicled in the annals of time was a climactic event of his trip. While attending a worship service at the chapel in Shihlin, Madame Chiang Kai-shek's personal compound, Dr. Ackerman spoke with General Chang during a chance meeting.

"In 1937, Japan had repeatedly attacked Manchuria," Dr. Ackerman said. "Trying to buy time to gather his forces, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek did not declare war on the Japanese immediately. In hopes of persuading Chiang Kai-shek to harden his policies against Japan, General Chang kidnapped the Generalissimo. Madame Chiang Kai-shek rescued her husband and General Chang was arrested, convicted and pardoned. Of course, China did eventually declare war against Japan."

The striking contrast of the Taiwan of the 50's, soon after the move of the Republic from the mainland, compared to the Taiwan of today, made a lasting impression on the Ackermans. Having visited the island as a Marine Lieutenant in the 50's, Dr. Ackerman said, "I remember Taiwan as a poverty stricken island . . . this Taiwan is a very highly industrialized, prosperous country . . . it is safe to say that the Republic of China is an economic miracle. We found the people of the Republic of China to be very warm, generous and open. The Taiwanese continue to have a high regard of Wesleyan."

Heroes and Heroines

James Hyde Porter

"Named to honor James Hyde Porter; a noble son of Georgia, a true friend of education, a kindly philanthropist. His generosity toward Wesleyan was unsurpassed in the first year of her history. "

Hengraved on a bronze plaque in the Porter Gymnasium, this description captures best the essence of the man who was James Hyde Porter, a devoted trustee of Wesleyan College. During the later years of his life, Mr. Porter donated over a half million dollars to the "Oldest and the Best." A man who could see in the hopes and dreams of young women the future of Wesleyan, his benevolence to the College will insure him a place in the hearts of Wesleyan graduates for generations to come.

During the last weeks of the 1939 campaign drive to repurchase the Rivoli Campus from bondholders, Mr. Porter's magnanimous donation prompted others to contribute the remainder to meet the debt. "It is significant," said W.D. Anderson, President of Wesleyan College during the 1939 campaign, "that Mr. Porter has no direct personal or sentimental attachment for Wesleyan... his contribution comes from his belief that education for women under Christian influences is economically sound and very much to be desired."

Although Olive Swann Porter never attended Wesleyan, it was Mr. Porter's love for his wife that prompted his generosity to the College. On January 28, 1940, the student activities building at Rivoli was named in honor of his wife and a portrait of Mrs. Porter was unveiled in the lobby of the building.

In a letter to the senior class president of 1940, Mr. Porter wrote, "The donation that I made to Wesleyan College...was on account of my wife. She was one of the finest women that ever lived, highly educated, while I am not, but we seem to get along, and I cannot do too much for her memory."

James Hyde Porter

Born in Covington, Georgia in 1873 to Oliver and Julia Ann McCrakin Porter, Mr. Porter grew up in Porterdale where his father operated a textile mill. He studied at Emory College in Oxford, but at 17 dropped his studies to return home to work in the mill. When Bibb Manufacturing Company bought the Porterdale mill in 1898, Mr. Porter remained in the textile business. Bibb moved him to Macon in 1907 and he eventually worked his way up to vice-chairman of the board of directors.

In 1902, he married Olive Swann, the daughter of a Covington businessman. The devotion of the Porters to one another was apparent to all and Olive Swann played an active role in their marriage. A Lucy Cobb

The book goes to print April, 1988.

His work also will be featured in "Southern Narrative Art" and "New Directions in Southeastern Art" at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville; at the Equifax Art Leasing Program in Atlanta, GA from October, 1987 to January, 1988; in the World Print Council Membership Exhibition in San Francisco, CA; and in a one-man show in the Discovery Gallery of Albany Museum of Art in Albany, GA in January, 1988.

Over the summer, Mr. Werger worked in the medium of monotype and compiled The Monotype Sourcebook with the assistance of a Wesleyan college summer research grant.

Dr. Tamela Grinstead-Relyea was one of four faculty members representing Wesleyan at the Lilly Endowment workshop on the Liberal Arts held in Colorado Springs in June. In addition she studied at the Sorbonne in Paris, France during July. Dr. Grinstead-Relyea's article "Listeners' Reactions to Ethnic and Regional Accents in Broadcasting" was published in the Journal of the Southeastern Conference on Linguistics.

Gifts at Work

President Robert Ackerman receives two checks from the funds of the National Alumnae Association Treasury. These gifts go to establish two endowed funds, Katharine Payne Carnes Endowed Lecture Series and the Wesleyan Alumnae Association Endowed Scholarship Fund.

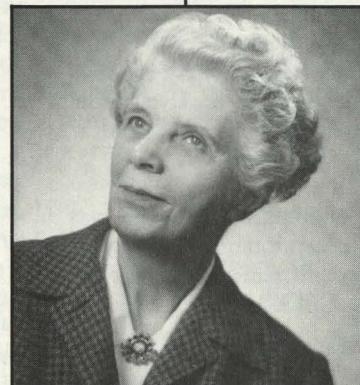

The Alumnae Association wishes to encourage designated gifts to these two endowment funds. "Both funds were generated by the Alumnae Association," said Karen Shockley, treasurer of the Board of Managers. We want to make known to the alumnae that the funds are still a viable means to give to the Carnes Lecture Series and the Scholarship Fund."

Katherine Payne Carnes' distinguished career as librarian at her Alma Mater (class of 1913) spanned forty years (1919-1959). Her talents, abilities, energies and insight established the foundation of the library collection at Wesleyan.

Four decades of Wesleyannes remember with pleasure and affection her "Dear Girls" letters, her Christmas parties, and her keen sense of humor. Her service to her College was not contained within the library building. On the occasion of her retirement, a faculty resolution commended "her devotion to her work, her uncompromising standards of excellence, and her endeavors in the interest of the College."

Established by the Alumnae Association in 1983, the endowed series will serve as a living memorial that honors the accomplishments of women and inspires women to greater achievement.

The Wesleyan Alumnae Association Endowed Scholarship Fund awards two scholarships a year to rising juniors who have been outstanding in leadership roles in their freshman and sophomore years and have a high academic standing.

Heroes

Institute graduate, Mrs. Porter shared his passion for the textile business, as her father owned a mill and mercantile business; and for roses, as she worked diligently in their rose gardens at Porterfield, their country retreat located south of Macon.

"She inherited from her able father a remarkable grasp of business affairs which enabled her to meet the needs of the busy man whose life had become her life," wrote a close friend in an article that appeared in the Christian Index, April, 1940. "Until her death in August, 1939, she so completely shared her husband's life and ministered to his needs with such devotion, that it is impossible to say what part of James H. Porter is the result of Olive Swann. Certain it is that their sympathy, understanding, and devotion each for the other were of that ideal type too seldom found save in story books."

The Olive Swann Porter Foyer, decorated in rare and priceless antiques, is another tribute to her from her devoted husband. After Mrs. Porter's portrait was unveiled in 1940, friends of the Porters commissioned an artist to paint a companion portrait of Mr. Porter to hang across the room. Every day for nine years until his death in 1949, he kept fresh flowers from their rose gardens beneath his wife's portrait at Wesleyan.

Mr. Porter's attachment for Wesleyan continued to grow over the years. He gave gifts of rare books and artwork as well as money to the College. In 1948, he donated the funds needed to construct a chapel-funds needed to construct a chapel-auditorium for the Rivoli campus. He died before construction of the building was completed, but the Porter Family Memorial Auditorium stands today as a tangible reminder of his generosity. He left instructions that a bronze plaque be placed at the entrance of the building honoring his family.

The inscription reads:

*Porter Family Memorial Building
given by James Hyde Porter honoring
Oliver S. Porter, Julia Ann McCraken
Porter, Oliver William Porter, Jr.,
Mary Porter Jenkins, Margaret Porter*

*Gorden, John Oliver Porter Scurry,
Julia Porter Scurry, Harriet Porter
Scurry.*

Throughout his lifetime, James Hyde Porter gave of himself to the people of middle Georgia — to their religious concerns, their educational needs, and their social wellbeing. During an era when most people were struggling to recover from the great depression, his generosity reached across denominational and racial lines to wherever he saw a need.

WESLEYAN CLIFF NOTES

Ralph Ketcham

WESLEYAN SALUTES UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION

To wish the United States Constitution a happy 200th birthday, Wesleyan hosted a trio of guest speakers. President Robert Ackerman gave the first speech of the Bicentennial program with his talk, "We the People..." at Fall Convocation.

As the twenty-seventh Lamar lecturer, Ralph Ketcham addressed the "Framers' Intent" and "The Life and Times of the Constitution." Married to a Wesleyan alumna, Julia Stillwell '58, Dr. Ketcham is an authority on American politics and professor of public affairs at Syracuse University. Named professor of the year by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education, Ketcham has written biographies of James Madison and Benjamin Franklin, as well as works on the U.S. Presidency.

The final program of the series was presented by Dr. George Rogers, renowned author, and Dr. Barbara Bellows, a 1986 Walter Hines Page Fellow. They discussed "The Victory at Philadelphia;" "The Constitution, Evolution and Inclusion;" "The Creation of the Republic of Georgia," and "The Defence of the Republic."

In demand as a speaker and leader of workshops, Dr. Bellows co-authored God and General Longstreet. Her essay, "My Children, Gentlemen, Are My Own," was included in The Web of Southern Social Relations: Education, Family and Women printed by the University of Georgia Press in 1986.

Dr. Rogers' teaching career has included positions at Hunter College, Emory University and University of South Carolina where he was named Yates Snowden Professor of History. Author of Evolution of a Federalist: William Loughton Smith of Charleston, 1758-1812 and Charleston in the Age of the Pinckneys, he co-edited The Papers of Henry Laurens.

GALLUP POLL RESULTS

According to SRI Gallup, Wesleyan College is perceived as "a friendly, personalized, small campus with quality faculty and a good reputation." SRI Gallup College Market Research surveyed 200 high school senior women who made an inquiry to Wesleyan and 200 high school senior women who applied for admission to Wesleyan.

Norm Jones, Wesleyan's Director of Admissions, employed Gallup "to give us a feel of the attitudes and opinions of potential students so that we can do a better job of serving them at Wesleyan."

The survey, conducted in the spring of this year, found Wesleyan to be more often the college of choice of high potential enrollees who are daughters of Georgia residents, daughters of higher income families, and women who prefer small class size and a quality faculty. The potential college students were attracted to a women's college, smaller colleges, personalized recruiting approaches, and special features such as internships.

While national publicity has focused on the recent closings of two women's colleges, Wesleyan has experienced an increase in enrollment. "We now have the largest number of new students since 1976 and the best academically prepared freshmen class since 1974," said Jones. "The average SAT scores for entering freshmen increased by 26 points over the 1986 freshman class."

SRI Gallup recommended that Wesleyan continue to be marketed as the college for the enhancement of women in business and the professions. College officials also were encouraged to enhance Wesleyan's personalized recruiting approaches.

WESLEYANNES ARE GETTING FIT

Swim into fitness at Wesleyan. HydroRobics, a water exercise program, is now offered at the Wesleyan College Fitness Center. "HydroRobics gives members of the center another option in physical fitness," said Lizann Youmans Provan '81, Director of Recreation and Wellness. Water aerobics has a low impact on the body which decreases the risk of injury."

According to Ms. Provan, water exercise is great for developing muscle and body density because water is resistant to movement. "Response has been great, especially with the seniors. All of the classes are filled to near capacity," she said.

Another fitness option now offered on the Wesleyan campus is the Game Run. The mile-long jogging course, which follows a scenic path around Foster Lake and the Equestrian Center, was dedicated during Fall semester. Dr. Nita Nelson Priest, associate director at the Institute for Aerobics Research in Dallas, Texas addressed "Fitness in the 80's" at the convocation. Complete with press coverage from the local media, Dr. Ackerman and Asbury Stembidge, Partners in Health Coordinator at the Medical Center of Central Georgia, cut the ribbon starting the Fun Run. A healthy luncheon rounded out the dedication festivities.

Message From The President

Dr. Robert K. Ackerman

Dear Colleagues:

I extend greetings to all alumnae and friends of Wesleyan. Knowing your devotion to this fine institution, I want to give you something of an update.

The first news in the fall is always enrollment. We have an increase of 4.5% over the fall of 1986 and we are very pleased. We are of course very encouraged with this continued growth following the graduation of a large class last spring. We are especially pleased that the average SAT score of these freshmen is 26 points better than last year.

You will also want to know that we have raised a total of $7,900,000 in gifts and pledges towards the goal of raising $8,800,000 by June of 1988. Our immediate goal is to raise $395,000 by February 1, 1988, to qualify for a $200,000 grant from the Kresge Foundation. I am grateful to many of you for assisting with that challenge. The College endowment now stands at $15,000,000, almost double what it was in 1981.

We are completing renovations of four buildings. The most extensive has been on the Taylor Hall of Science and Mathematics. We have also done extensive work in Persons Dormitory, the Porter Gymnasium, and Jones Dormitory, all made possible by the capital campaign.

We employed seven new members of the faculty. With no disrespect to those who have retired, I rejoice in saying that the faculty is superb and getting better. These are highly competent and dedicated colleagues.

We have launched the D. Abbott Turner Center for the Advancement of Women in Business, which will enhance cooperation among alumnae, students, faculty, and the business community.

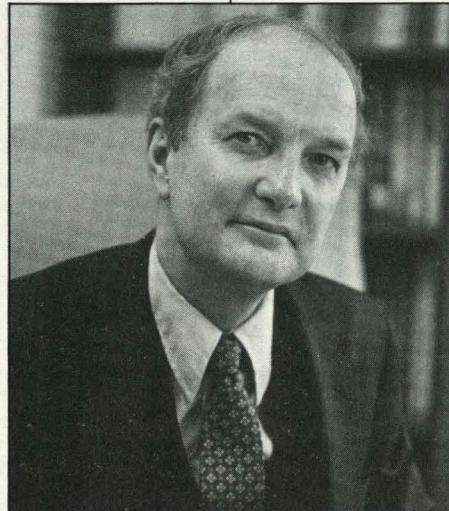

We recently commissioned a market study by the prestigious firm, SRI Gallup. They concluded that Wesleyan has a "high, positive image among applicants and inquirers alike." Wesleyan is perceived to be a "friendly, personalized, small campus with quality faculty and a good reputation."

I urge each of you to visit the campus when you can.

Sincerely,

R. K. Ackerman

The second in a planned series of Wesleyan Christmas ornaments features "The Loggia."

Reproduced in four colors from an acrylic painting by Jean Parkins Heard '47, the ornament is mounted on wood and topped with a green velvet ribbon for hanging. The hand-crafted ornament is dated Christmas, 1987. The back

"THE LOGGIA"
Second in a Limited Edition Series

side displays the Wesleyan College emblem and the wording "Hail, Wesleyan, thou emblem of all that is grand . . ."

You'll want to continue this holiday tradition . . . for this Christmas season and years to come. They make great gifts, too. This is a limited edition, so order your ornaments today.
